

NEW PARTNERSHIP SUPPORTS PARENTS IN THE WORKPLACE

Preview of upcoming podcasts:

Lifelong Health Begins Before Conception: A Conversation with Public Health Researcher Dr. Wendy Hellerstedt

Early Childhood Screening: It's Important for Your Child and Mine

Parenting Is a Contact Sport: A Conversation with Joanne Stern, Therapist and Author

What's Your Body Telling You? A Conversation with Author Steve Sisgold

The Minnesota Department of Education (MDE), Working Family Resource Center (WFRC) and GOOD ENOUGH MOMS™ (GEMs) talk show co-hosts, Dr. Marti Erickson and Erin Erickson, are partnering to bring developmentally sound, evidence-based information to parents -- and help nurture supportive communities among parents in their workplace.

- Listen to the weekly half-hour podcasts on child development and parenting www.goodenoughmoms.com
- Engage in the lively discussion that follows each weekly podcast on www.MNParentsKnow.info.
- Promote GOOD ENOUGH MOMS™ at your work-place through Working Family Resource Center's website at www.workingfamilyresourcecenter.org